Norberg's Initiative Proposal

Editor's Note: At a meeting of the Carmel Citizens Committee Monday night, City Councilman Gunnar Norberg proposed an initiative ordinance to control gas stations, chain stores, additional motel construction, and prevent service and light industry uses invading the presently protected areas of the Carmel business district. At our request, he has made a written report for the Pine Cone. We do not necessarily agree with all the elements of his proposal. We present them for thought and study by our readers.—W.C.

BY GUNNAR NORBERG

Ever since the new Carmel City Council decided last month--by a 3 to 2 vote—to allow issuance of a building permit for the long disputed parking garage and service station in the Carmel Plaza block, many thinking people in the community have begun to feel that the voters themselves will have to legislate directly to save their beloved Carmel from actual or imminent encroachments of a commercial kind which could radically alter the long established character of the town. These thinking people feel that their spokesmen before the council at last month's Plaza hearing were not only numerous but articulate and emphatic, and yet the council acted against them and in favor of the Plaza corporation.

What seems to many voters particularly distressing is that the council, in effect, over-rode its own long-established law in narrowly voting to allow the Plaza corporation its controversial parking garage, for which the governing Section 1307 of the Municipal Code gives no specific authority. The council's action in this case is what I have called "leap-frogging the law". Many serious and earnest people, whose only concern is the total welfare of the whole community, believe that this much-moot council action in the Plaza matter, may only be the first of a possible series of actions which could defeat the expressed wishes of the electorate.

When I spoke about these matters at last Monday night's meeting of the Carmel Citizens' Committee at the Sunset School, I believe that the approval expressed

Top COP Honor Won By Barbara Small Busy Mother Of Two

Superintendent of Schools Stuart Mitchell and Mrs. Mitchell had two major family events occur on Sunday. In the afternoon their younger daughter, Sue, was married to Bill Berrum; in the morning their two grandchildren, Laura Anne, two years old, and Marty Lynne, born two weeks ago, were christened at All Saints' Episcopal Church. They are the children of Mr. and Mrs. Mitchell's son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Small of Stockton.

The girls' mother, Barbara, graduated from College of the Pacific on June 11. A member of Mu Phi Epsilon, honorary music society, she was chosen the outstanding woman member of the COP senior class on the basis of musicianship, scholarship, character and service. Her name will be engraved on a plaque which is permanently displayed in the COP Conservatory of Music.

Barbara had a straight A average for her first semester studies

Toddler Drowns In Her Parents' Indoor Pool

Pamela Jean Price, age one year five months, drowned in her parents' indoor swimming pool yesterday afternoon, sometime before 5:15 o'clock. She is the daughter of Robert Edmond Price, a contractor, and Joyce Price, 76 Carmel Knolls Drive. They have another child, five-year-old Theresa Anne.

According to Coroner Christopher Hill, the parents were entertaining a friend, Grant Jennings, Monterey, in the family room "off the pool" from which the entire pool is not visible, when the mother saw the child's teddy bear floating on the water. They found Pamela in the pool. "She had either dropped her teddy bear and fallen in trying to recover it, or had fallen in with it," Hill speculated.

The Carmel Red Cross Ambulance resuscitator crew and Dr. Thomas B. Price were called but were unable to revive the child.

Doors to the pool area connecting with the rooms of the house were kept locked, Coroner Hill said, but the door to the terrace was not and it was by this door the child got access to the pool from outdoors.

Ambulance crew responding to the call, which was reported at the Carmel Firehouse at 5:21, was Jim Bannerman, Paul Artellan and James Cardwell.

In addition to her parents and sister, Pamela is survived by her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas B. Price, and her aunt, Mary Jane Shellington.

Funeral arrangements are pending.

"The attorneys for the member companies of the Northern California Council of Outdoor Advertising have expressed an opinion that the unfair billboard provisions contained in the Unclassified District to the ordinance are discriminatory and unfair and, therefore, unconstitutional. Monterey County to date has left no course for this industry to pursue other than to test in the courts the constitutionality of this zoning ordinance," writes J. W. Fontana, president of the Northern California Council of Outdoor Advertising in a letter to the Montery County newspapers.

This action is wholly expected. Monterey County's billboard ordinance has created interest all over the country. It appears the most leak-proof yet devised. A test in court was inevitable. If it stands up, it will serve as a model for other counties, not only in California but throughout the nation wherever the people have become sufficiently irritated by billboard blight to organize for action.

In January when the billboard representatives asked the county planning commission for concessions that would have made its ordinance ineffectual, and were refused, they threatened this action, and Senator Fred Farr expressed the feelings of an overwhelming majority of the voters of the county when he said:

"I hope the planning commission doesn't yield an inch. Let the billboard people sue. We have a very competent legal staff in this county. These billboard fellows say in Washington, 'let the states regulate the billboards', then come to us in Sacramento and say, 'let the counties regulate the billboards', and then they try to bust the county ordinances."

School trustees will meet with Edgar L. Morphet and Chester Swanson of the University of California Field Service on July 8 to obtain revised information on projected future pupil enrollment in Carmel district.

Assistant Superintendent Wayne Greenfield arranged the meeting at the request of trustees following a meeting Monday night of the school board and citizens committee for the bond election. The two groups endeavored to find a way to provide adequate high school and junior high school facilities within the bonding capacity of the district ($3,000,000) using future enrollment figures presented by Morphet and Swanson earlier this year.

Ted Kuster Eye-View Of Community Theatre's Forty Turbulent Years

The following is a transcript of a talk presented recently to the Book Section of the Carmel Woman's Club. No doubt there are other points of view and interpretations of the early-day theatrical rivalries in Carmel. This is Ted Kuster's own, which we shall run serially in several issues of the Pine Cone because it is too entertaining to cut. Views expressed by Mr. Kuster do not necessarily represent the opinions of the editor and publisher of this newspaper. Most of it happened before they came upon the Carmel scene.

After your affable and persuasive program secretary had overcome my initial reluctance to come before you with this talk on my years in local theatre, I promptly dismissed the matter from my mind. After all, May 30 was still two months away. But a few days ago, when I began to organize what I might say here in the time alloted, I was brought up with a sharp jolt. I suddenly realized that my talk might either sound obnoxiously egotistical, or, if trimmed down, might smack of a sort of sniveling false modesty. I hoped to interest you, I certainly didn't want to irritate you. So I began to look about for some guiding principle. I thought of "Good property sells itself if the salesman doesn't stand in the way". But that didn't seem to fit very well. And then I thought of Arthur Hopkins' true rule of acting, say to yourself, "How can I play this important scene without being noticed?" and not "What can I do with this scene to make myself stand out?" That seemed to be a good target to set my sights for. But try to avoid it as I will, I know very well that the first person singular will get a good workout this afternoon. After all, it is my 40 years that I shall talk about, a personal record, and for better or worse I shall inevitably find myself in the foreground. It is not that I have been important or that my work has been of world-shaking importance, but it was impor-

Rotary Celebrates 10th Anniversary With Dinner Party

Ten Years In Retrospect was the theme of the tenth anniversary party of the Carmel Rotary Club held at the Beach Club last evening. Sixty members and their wives gathered at 7:00 o'clock for a cocktail hour that preceded the anniversary dinner over which Corum Jackson, a Carmel Rotary Club founder, presided as master of ceremonies.

Mr. Jackson, also first president of the club, introduced in succession presidents who followed him in office. Each lauded their predecessor's accomplishments then humorously described how they would have done a better job. Past presidents who described the history of the club's activities in this manner were Wesley W. Kergan, James M. Rowe, J. Frank Murphy, George V. Yates, Robert P. Spencer, Everett Smith, Edwin H. Ewig, Thomas K. Perry and the outgoing president, Robert U. Ricklefs Following the last talk, Mr. Jackson summarized Mr. Ricklefs' accomplishments during the past year, then dismissed him from office and installed Mayor Frank Putnam as president for the coming year.

Presidents of other Rotary Clubs on the Peninsula were guests of the Carmel club last evening. Sidney A. Dibble was general chairman for the anniversary party assisted by Rollo Payne and Lew Kramer. Sixteen of the 30 charter

Schools Get $36,644 Federal "Tuition" For Army-Navy Kids

A telegram from Congressman Charles M. Teague states that Carmel Unified School District will receive immediate payment of $36,644 for school maintenance during the current year. This is over $3,000 more than was budgeted, according to District Superintendent Stuart Mitchell.

The funds were certified to Carmel district by the U.S. Office of Education under Public Law 874 which provides payments to school systems located in federally impacted areas. Federal funds are paid to these districts in proportion to the number of federally connected students enrolled in the system. They may be dependents of Army and Navy personnel, also of civilian employees at military installations.

Chests, Councils, Funds Meet Friday At Del Monte Lodge

The annual meeting of central and northern California Community Chests, Councils and United Funds will open tomorrow morning at Del Monte Lodge with registration at 9:00 o'clock. Closing event of the day-long session will be a dinner at the Beach Club at 7:00 o'clock following a social hour.

Mrs. Gallatin Powers and Mrs. Mark Thomas will be the dinner speakers. Their subject will be What's Behind The Russian Bluff. They recently returned from visiting Russia at the time of the U-2 incident on an American businesswomen's tour. Mrs. Thomas and Mrs. Powers will also give their observations on Russian youth in comparison with youth of the United States.

Brayton Witherell, executive secretary of the Monterey Peninsula Community Chest, was a member of the committee that arranged the program for the annual meeting.

FINAL WEEK OF LITTLE LEAGUE PLAY

League Standings
(As of June 21)

	Won	Lost
Pilot Market	4	1
San Carlos Realty	4	2
Sport Shop	4	2
Boys' Town	3	3
Turner & McEldowney	1	4
Wilder & Jones	1	5

As play in the Carmel Little League turns into the final week, the Pilot Market nine holds a slim one-game lead over the hard-pressing Sport Shop and San Carlos Realty clubs. Art Carpenter's crew has games remaining with Sport Shop and Turner & McEldowney and must win them both before getting clear title to the second-half flag. If Lew McCreery's Sports clip the grocers, they will cinch a tie for the second round title. Jack Miller's San Carlos Realty gang must get over Newt Goodrich's Boys' Town nine in order to stay in contention.

Wilder & Jones won the first-half championship and will meet the winner of the second-half for the right to play in the district championships. Carmel's Little League winner will meet the best from King City, Salinas and Carmel Valley.

Last week's Little League play was featured by Craig Cunningham's grand slam homer which paced the San Carlos Realty to a 13-6 win over the Sport Shop. The little shortstop hit a pair of home runs in this one, driving in five runs for Jack Miller's gang. Larry Little and Jim Sparolini teamed up to pitch the win for San Carlos with Little getting the credit for the victory. Pat Woolsey and Randy Newman shared the mound duties for the losers. Mark Zanides stroked 2-for-3 to lead the Sport Shop hitters while Jim Sparolini backed up Cunningham's two four-masters with 3-for-5. This was an important win for the realtors, keeping them in close contention for the second-half title.

Newt Goodrich's hit-happy Boys' Town aggregation tied the league record for most runs scored in a game by tallying 24 times against Don Canham's Turner & McEldowney nine. The clothiers poled out 16 base hits off the slants of Pete Crane and were helped by 13 free passes to first base. Clinton Macy pitched the win for Boys' Town, giving up 7 hits over the six-inning route. Macy led the game's hitters with a perfect 5-for-5, including a towering home run over the left field fence. Tom Verser hit two doubles for the winners while Lawson Little and David Erickson hit 2-for-3 to pace the losers.

Art Carpenter's front-running Pilot Market nine kept a game on top by clipping Wilder & Jones, 7 to 3, as Tim Head, Vince DiBiase and Curt Mitchell took turns holding off the W&J sluggers. Kim Roberts went the distance for the plumbers, giving up 7 hits, 8 walks and striking out 10 Pilot swingers. Dennis Jones and Roberts were the only W&J batters to hit safely. Ronnie Fukagawa topped the Pilot hitters, collecting two singles in four trips to the plate. Ronnie Parsons and Brad Jones turned in sparkling fielding plays to cut down possible extra-base hits.

Pat Woolsey tossed a neat four-hitter at Boys' Town in Monday night's action to give Lew McCreery's second-place gang a 2-0 win over the clothiers. Woolsey and Clint Macy hooked up in one of the best pitching duels of the season in a fast game which took an hour and ten minutes to complete. Woolsey issued three free trips to first, struck out four, and gave a like number of hits, while Macy gave up no free passes, struck out 10, and doled out 7 hits. Tim Petersen, with a double and single, topped the Sport hitters.

Jim Sparolini's double in the seventh inning drove in the run which gave San Carlos Realty a 3-2 win over Wilder & Jones in Tuesday night's Little League action. This was one of the best games of the season and was tied up at 2-2 at the end of the regulation six innings. Sparolini pitched the win for the realtors with Brad Jones receipting for the loss.

Rookie Jeff Dinsmore, just up from the Farm League, paced the W&J hitters, getting the only two blows registered by the plumbers.

Tonight's Little League action matches Wilder & Jones with Turner & McEldowney; San Carlos and Boys' Town meet in a crucial tilt on Friday night; and Monday's windup game shows Pilot Market going against Turner & McEldowney.

VILLAGE INN AND LITTLE SPARROWS SHARE TITLE
(Final Standings)

	Won	Lost
Village Inn	6	1
Little Sparrows	6	1
Padres	4	3
Carmel Plaza	4	3
American Legion	3	4
Rockets	2	5
Derek Rayne	2	5
Nikko's	1	6

Regular play in the Carmel Little League Farm Team Schedule wound up last Saturday with the Village Inn topping Derek Rayne, the Padres stopping the Rockets, the American Legion besting Carmel Plaza, and the Little Sparrows finishing in front of Nikko's. Village Inn and Little Sparrows finished in a deadlock for first place, both teams winning 6 and losing 1. The Padres and Carmel Plaza shared the runner-up spot with identical 4-3 records.

Feature of last Saturday's Farm Team play was Lee Stoney's fine pitching performance as the Padres whipped the Rockets, 7 to 3. Lee struck out 14 over the five-inning route, giving up 2 hits and walking 4 Rocket batters. A bases-loaded double by David Armanasco provided the offensive fireworks for the winners.

During the next two Saturdays there will be a playoff among the top four teams with the championship and consolation titles being decided on July 2.

CARMEL BABE RUTH NINE LOSES TO CENTRAL LABOR

League-leading Central Labor toyed with the Carmel Babe Ruth squad last Sunday at the Carmel High diamond, clipping the local entry, 12 to 2, to keep a firm grip on the top spot in the Peninsula Babe Ruth League. The Central Labor battery of Mark Mathews and Jim Colleto was too much for the smaller Carmel lads. Mathews struck out 14 Carmel swingers while giving up 4 hits and walking 6 while his battery mate connected for three hits in four trips to the plate. Forrest Cornwall pitched the distance for the Carmel nine and was the victim of his own

Carmel Receives Safety Award For Fifteenth Year

Three cities on the Monterey Peninsula have received Excellence of Pedestrian Protection awards from the American Automobile Association for their achievement of no pedestrian deaths in 1959.

The cities are Carmel, Pacific Grove and Monterey.

More than 1,700 cities competed in the annual nationwide Pedestrian Program Appraisal which is sponsored in northern and central California by the California State Automobile Association.

Carmel has now achieved the record of 15 years without a single pedestrian fatality. Pacific Grove has gone five years without a fatality.

Pedestrian fatalities dropped to an all-time low last year, reports the CSAA. When the AAA Pedestrian Program was launched in 1937, a total of 15,500 pedestrians were killed in traffic accidents, as compared with only 7,750 in 1959.

wildness and shaky support from his teammates. Cornwall sent 10 Central Labor batters back to the bench via the strikeout route, walked 8, and gave up 9 hits. Catcher Tim Bratton and third-baseman Bobby Moffet turned in several fine fielding plays for the Carmel nine.

This Saturday at 1:00 o'clock on the Pacific Grove softball diamond, the Carmel gang will cross bats with the Monterey Merchants. In Saturday's second game, the Pacific Grove Merchants tangle with the Baldwin Piano nine.

YOUTH CENTER SOFTBALL LEAGUE STARTS TONIGHT

Each Thursday night for the duration of the summer, the popular Carmel Youth Center softball circuit will take over the action at Sunset Field. The YC league is strictly a fun affair which brings together the present crop of Carmel High School athletes with the new and old alumni groups. Scores often run into astronomical figures but the action is swift with no stalling allowed at any time during the games.

Entered in this year's Youth Center League are the New Sophomores, the New Juniors, the New Seniors, the New Alumni and the Old Alumni. The Old Alumni has dominated the league for the past two years, but in last season's play showed signs of wear and tear and were nearly toppled by the present New Senior group.

Jack Giles, YC director, does the pitching for all the teams and the former scourge of the Adult League has trouble missing any of the bats. Any player who strikes out against Giles' offerings is awarded a gold star in the Youth Center trophy case.

Marion Jackson

Mrs. Marion Scott Jackson, wife of Colonel Montgomery C. Jackson (USA ret.), died on Monday in a local hospital after a long period of ill health.

Mrs. Jackson was born in Charlottesville, Virginia, on September 24, 1903. Following her marriage to Colonel Jackson, she lived for some time in Petersburg, Virginia, and was a member of Christ Episcopal Church in that city, also active in the church's Altar Guild and the Petersburg Garden Club. Immediately before coming here five years ago, Mrs. Jackson and her husband lived on Okinawa.

She is survived by no close relatives other than Colonel Jackson.

Funeral services were held yesterday afternoon in the Little Chapel-by-the-Sea. The Reverend David Hill, rector of All Saints' Episcopal Church, officiated. Inurnment will be in the family plot in Blandford Cemetery, Petersburg, Virginia.

Those wishing to honor the memory of Mrs. Jackson may do so in the form of donations to the charities of their choice.

Wick Parsons

Wickliff Walker Parsons, who came to Carmel and opened an antique store here 23 years ago, died on Tuesday in a local hospital following a short illness.

Mr. Parsons was born in San Francisco on March 27, 1872. His mother, Matilda Walker Parsons, came to California in 1849; his father, Wickliff Broadwell Parsons, to San Francisco seven years later and edited The Pacific Methodist.

After graduating from Mission Grammar School in San Francisco in 1887, Mr. Parsons studied at Hesperian College in Woodland. In 1891 he went to Fresno where he was employed by the People's Savings Bank and established the Fresno Art Association. He was transferred, with the position of cashier, to the Bank of Central California which became the Fidelity Bank and then the Security-First National Bank of Los Angeles.

Mr. Parsons was also district manager of the Home Loan Association before joining the Houghson and Swett real estate firm in Los Angeles.

He came to Carmel in 1937 and established his antique shop on Lincoln Street, later moving the business to the Pine Inn courtyard.

Mr. Parsons was a member of the board of trustees of the Harrison Memorial Library for several years. His marriage to Jessie Vivian Simmons took place in 1902.

Survivors are Mrs. Parsons; a son, Wickliff S. Parsons of Carmel; a daughter, Mrs. Harold E. Davis of Pacific Grove; two granddaughters, Mrs. William C. Wills Jr. of Pacific Grove and Mrs. James S. Parker of Monterey; and a great-grandson, Lawrence C. Wills of Pacific Grove.

Funeral services were held yesterday afternoon in the Little Chapel-by-the-Sea. The Reverend Rolfe Conrad, minister of the First Methodist Church of Pacific Grove, officiated. Burial was in El Carmelo Cemetery.

Lester Williams

Lester Alonzo Williams, former Carmel school trustee, died on June 12 in Palo Alto. He left here last July to live in Menlo Park.

Dr. Williams was born in Hampstead, New Hampshire, on June 11, 1880. He was granted a doctor of philosophy degree by New York University in 1913. He became professor of education at the University of California in 1922 and in 1945 was named professor emeritus by the university. He wrote several books on education, one after coming here to live, and used pictures of Carmel High School students to illustrate this volume.

Dr. Williams was elected to the school board in 1945 and resigned because of ill health on June 28, 1945.

He is survived by his wife, Elizabeth.

Those wishing to honor the memory of Dr. Williams may do so in the form of donations to the Carmel Foundation.

Circle Theatre Players Give Lively Performance Thornton Wilder Comedy

By Virginia Shaw

Paced by an irreverent, exuberant performance by Ann McElroy Fry, the Golden Bough Players are offering a lively production of Thornton Wilder's perennially fresh and offbeat comedy, The Skin of Our Teeth.

A fine farrago of sense and nonsense, Wilder's selective recapitulation of six thousand years of civilization plays hob both with history and theatrical conventions. The one still point in Wilder's turning world is the New Jersey domicile of George Antrobus, a doughty and doggedly optimistic little man, and his family, who since the beginning of time have managed to survive catastrophies ranging from the ice age to the depression — and survive, as well, the meddling of the irresponsible, irrepressible Sabina.

The through-the-looking-glass adventures of the human race—represented by the Antrobus clan—are introduced by a narrator as a sort of play-within-a-play, but it is Sabina who holds things together in her breezy commentaries, with frequent asides to the audience in which she snipes at the play, the playwright, the characters, and generally expresses a blase disenchantment with the whole undertaking.

Sabina is a natural scene-stealer, and Ann Fry's very special combination of brashness and appealing vivacity are invested in it at a high rate of interest. Equipped with pink stockings, a revival-meeting voice and a winning grin, she prances in and out of the wildly shifting plot with the unshakable aplomb of the eternal feminine.

Don Minor is excellent as the idealistic, inventive and slightly pompous Mr. Antrobus, who in one incarnation devises the wheel and in another is elected president of the order of mammals. Marcia Hovick gives a sympathetic, flexible performance as the hard-put Mrs. Antrobus, at one moment displaying the fierce protectiveness of the female for her home and cubs and at another deliciously parodying the quivering rectitude of a small-town clubwoman.

Chris Hovick is effective as the boyish but dangerously destructive Henry Antrobus (ne Cain), and Sherrie Nix plays his sister, Gladys, with adolescent charm which ripens to touching dignity in the final scene.

Jerry Zellhoeffer scores in a brief but delightful bit as a prehistoric messenger boy encumbered with family responsibilities, and two small Frys, Lucinda and Roberta, are thoroughly engaging as the Antrobus household pets, a dinosaur and a mammoth. Carolyn Elstob cuts a colorful swath as a cynical fortuneteller, and Gary Bradburn manages the in-and-out part of the narrator and stage manager, Fitzpatrick. Others filling various small roles are Nick Hovick, Charlotte Hoch, Virginia LaVigne, William Fitzhugh Jr., Kay LaVigne, Ralph Edwards and Holly Spangenberg.

Skin of Our Teeth is well directed by Frederick Rider, with scene design by Gordon Stebenne and Hilda James as stage manager. Production manager is Zelma Weinfield, who also assists Eugene Walker in the costuming. Lighting is by Pip Hastings, sound by Bob Renk; Muriel Neikirk, Ginger Saylor, Mike Walsh and Mrs. Frederick Hughes are production assistants.

Wilder's bewildering, amusing invention points up some truths which seem uncomfortably apropos of these uneasy times; but, as Sabina assures us, the story is far from finished, and the race still has a long way to go. Audiences can appraise matters for themselves on Friday, Saturday and Sunday nights at 8:30 o'clock, curtain time at the Circle Theatre.

Charlotte Crane

Mrs. Charlotte A. Crane died in a local hospital on June 17 after a period of failing health. She had lived in Carmel for 35 years. Her home was at Santa Fe Street and Third Avenue.

Mrs. Crane was born in Marshalltown, Iowa, in 1888. She came to California 42 years ago and lived in Fullerton before moving here. Her husband, Lewis H. Crane, died in 1954.

Survivors are a daughter, Mrs. Pauline Bauman, Carmel; two sisters, Mrs. La Verne Rate and Mrs. Anne Ripley, both of Pasadena; and one grandson, Robert E. Bauman, Carmel.

Memorial services were held on Saturday in the Little Chapel-by-the-Sea in Pacific Grove.

Those wishing to honor the memory of Mrs. Crane may do so in the form of donations to their favorite charity.

Carmel Rotary Has Distinguished Record Of Community Service In The Ten Years Since Its Founding

Ten years ago Rotary International came to Carmel with the formation of the Carmel Rotary Club. Thirty leading businessmen of the city associated together to practice the ideals of Rotary in their businesses and in the community as well as to contribute works, deeds and funds for the welfare and good not only of Carmel but of the country and indeed of the whole world.

During the first five years the club supported the school eyeglass fund, contributed to the Youth Center, the International Scholarship Fund and the Welcome Cottage for Servicemen. It sponsored the formation of the Junior Statesman Club at Carmel High School, Boy Scout Troop 31, the University of California Glee Club Concert, and lectures by Martin Flavin and Carmel Martin. Its first president was Corum Jackson, who was succeeded by J. Frank Murphy, James Rowe, Wesley Kergan and Edwin Ewig.

The five men who organized the club were: Corum Jackson, Sidney Dibble, Everett Smith, Charles Allaire and Robert Stanton, and the 30 charter members were: Corum B. Jackson, Wesley W. Kergan, Joseph B. McCarthy, Robert Stanton, Everett Smith, Cyrus B. Johnson, J. Frank Murphy, Edwin H. Ewig, Horace D. Lyon, Robert P. Spencer, James B. Finley, Walter Nielsen, Charles B. Scoville, Michael P. Gould, B. Frank Sowell, Andrew C. Wiemann, Earl H. Price, Gail Chandler, Richard L. Bower, Edison A. Holt, Thomas K. Perry, Arthur T. Shand, Paul H. Clampett, Gunnar Norberg, Charles W. Allaire, Derek G. Rayne, James M. Rowe, Cree L. Wilder, Michael F. O'Connell, Sidney A. Dibble.

During the second five years the club sponsored the bringing of foreign students to Carmel High School, supplying the funds to do so and even homes for such students to live with members' families. Not long after this was thus commenced, the Student Body took over the raising of the funds and other aspects of this program so beneficial to international understanding.

Later, Carmel Rotary Club instituted a system of commemorating high scholastic standing among the high school students, providing both the inspiration and the original badges of honor. Now the P.T.A. has taken over most of the project.

Another important and substantial contribution to the youth of the community was the very considerable assistance given to the Girl Scouts in the construction of their camp in Carmel Valley upon land, incidentally given them by a member of the Monterey Rotary Club, Fred Godwin.

In the meantime, the club has sponsored many other worthwhile activities for youth and for other members of this community. And at all times every member contributes to the Rotary Foundation Fund to provide scholarships for students in one country to continue their education in another.

During this last five years the officers of the club have been: Thomas K. Perry, Robert Spencer, George V. Yates, Everett Smith and Robert U. Ricklefs as presidents, Richard Catlin and Dr. Charles Pearson as secretaries and Gunnar Norberg and John Ruster as treasurers.

The membership of the club has grown to 60. In addition to these active members there are a group of visitors from other Rotary clubs, whose attendance in Carmel is so regular that they have their own organization known as the Roaming Rotarians.

FROM A LIBRARIAN'S NOTEBOOK

By Ruth Galvin Thornburg

Some good books this week but nothing breathtaking. We have two new-to-us books by Walter Bell which were published in London and are considered to be valuable source books in English history. Mr. Bell was a journalist who specialized in the history of the city of London. One book is entitled The Great Plague in London, 1665 and the other is The Great Fire of London, 1666. The books are illustrated with reproductions of old drawings and maps and also with photographs of the buildings of those days which remain today. The question is, who gets up in the early hours to take pictures of old buildings sitting beside streets deserted of human kind?

People do make their own furniture, as a hobby, and when we find a book showing the making we generally buy it. Klenke's Furniture Book is a small thing full of diagrams and photographs depicting the innards of furniture. Oil up the lathe and borrow this book for instructions. Other books for the hobbyist are Fabric Painting by B. G. Eades and English Dolls by Alice Early.

Front Runner, Dark Horse, by Ralph Martin is a political study of Senators Kennedy and Symington. The book follows the two men as they go about the country making speeches and meeting people, and it reports the questions asked by audiences and the answers of the candidates.

Pat Garrett was the marshal who shot Billy the Kid and was later himself killed by bullet-fire. His biography was done by Richard O'Connor who also did the same literary service for Bat Masterson and Wild Bill Hickok. These biographies are real stories of the old west.

This Was Hollywood is the title of a book by Beth Day who writes of the old days when Hollywood was a glad, mad place and movie money grew on studio trees. From the old days to the present day, it's all here in This Was Hollywood.

A small book with the fascinating title How to Finance a College Education should be helpful right now with graduations going on all over the place. It was written by Bradford Craig.

The gracious custom of family reading aloud, if revived, might do a lot to restore the old idea of family life and combat delinquency at its roots. The Bible for Family Reading was edited and prepared by Joseph Gaer, and based upon the King James Version.

The children are beginning to join the summer reading club. Send yours in, too.

Sue Wed At Wayfarer Church

Candles shed a soft light on white gladioli decorating the altar of the Church of the Wayfarer on Sunday afternoon when Sue Mitchell became the bride of Louis Willadsen Berrum Jr. of Reno. Dr. K. Fillmore Gray performed the ceremony at 2:00 o'clock.

Sue was given in marriage by her father, Stuart Mitchell. Scallops edged the boat neckline and short sleeves of her embroidered white silk organza wedding gown which extended in princess lines into a short skirt. Her shoulder length veil fell from a pearl circlet and she carried a bouquet of white roses and bouvardia.

Her older sister, Mrs. Richard Small of Stockton, was her attendant in a light blue organza over silk dress. Her tiny pearl-trimmed hat matched her frock and she carried pink roses.

Louis W. Berrum Sr. of Reno was his son's best man.

Mrs. Mitchell wore a gray silk suit with matching hat and shoes and a white rose corsage for her daughter's marriage.

The groom's mother, Mrs. Berrum, was clad in a soft blue silk print dress, harmonizing hat and a white rose corsage.

White gladioli and candles decorated the living room of the bride's parents' home in Carmel Woods for the reception following the ceremony.

The young couple honeymooned in Yosemite Valley and at Lake Tahoe until yesterday when Bill resumed his work with the recreation department in Reno where he and Sue will live. The latter will enter her sophomore year at the University of Nevada in the fall.

Graduation Family Reunion

Wendy Wiegman, who graduated from Carmel High School on Friday evening, was honored at a pre-graduation family dinner at the home of her mother, Mrs. Beatrice Wiegman. Guests were Wendy's sister, Trix, and Trix' husband, Grant Smith, from Cupertino, also Wendy's three brothers and their wives, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Wiegman of Sunnyvale, Mr. and Mrs. Kit Wiegman of Grass Valley and Mr. and Mrs. Bob Wiegman of Los Angeles.

This was the first time in 13 years that all members of the family had been able to be at home at the same time. Wendy's uncle, Stockwell Catlin of San Jose came to Carmel for her dinner and graduation, too, also Larry Hall of Rio del Mar, a friend of all members of the Wiegman family for many years.

Mr. Jenkins Has Appointment

Lloyd E. Jenkins of Pebble Beach has been appointed a registered representative of Waddell & Reed, Inc., national distributor of United Funds, Inc. The announcement came from the firm's headquarters in Kansas City, Missouri. Before receiving this appointment, Mr. Jenkins was in the investment business in Carmel for two years and before that owned an advertising agency in Pebble Beach. He is active in Cub Scouting and Little League Farm Club.

Dick Ogden Flies Abroad

Richard Ogden left for Europe today by polar route to London where he will spend a few days before going on to Amsterdam and Germany. He will spend seven weeks in Germany working in the Borgward factory where student jobs are procured through the American Student Information Bureau. Dick then plans to bicycle for several months throughout Europe. He has been a counselor at the Robert Louis Stevenson School in Pebble Beach for the past year and also studied at MPC. His parents are Mr. and Mrs. Murle Ogden of Carmel.

Edwards Leave On Vacation

Carmel High School Principal Warren Edwards, Mrs. Edwards, Bill and Peggy, left today by car for the East and Canada. They will visit sisters of Mr. Edwards in Washington and Boston before exploring New England, watching Bay of Fundy tides in Nova Scotia, visiting Quebec and Montreal and seeing the St. Lawrence Seaway.

Mr. Edwards will also discuss team teaching with New England educators and see high schools built especially for this teaching program, to be tried at Carmel High School next year for the first time. He reports that New England is several years ahead of other regions in team teaching and that one New England elementary school, with a Ford Foundation grant, has been using team teaching methods for five years.

German Judge's Daughter Here

Regina Bosse, daughter of District Judge Claus Bosse and Mrs. Bosse of Berlin, left Carmel on Tuesday. She was the guest of Carmel High School students Wendy Wiegman and Mardi Lloyd while here.

Regina was on a tour of California after spending the school year in Fruitland, Idaho, as a foreign student in the International Christian Youth Exchange program. She graduated from Fruitland High School at the end of May. The school is small, situated in the Idaho orchard region. Only language instruction is one year of Latin. Regina was amazed to learn that the Carmel High School language program includes more than one year of instruction in Latin, Spanish, French, German and Russian.

She was surprised to know we had a local symphony orchestra, a Bach Fsetival, a chamber music concert series and the quality of artists appearing on Music Society programs.

The abundance of art galleries in Carmel astonished Regina. She enjoyed sunning and swimming at the beach and was sorry the Youth Center was closed during her visit so that she could not experience this facet of Carmel life. She apologized that she did not recognize the names of local writers. "I couldn't take the American Literature course at Fruitland High."

Standing under a tall redwood in Palo Colorado Canyon, filled with delight at finding she was really among "sequoias" so near the bare coastal hills, Regina looked up to the top of the towering trunk and remarked in awe, "It makes one feel so small."

Former Rector Returns

The Reverend Alfred B. Seccombe with Mrs. Seccombe and their children are vacationing here. They have come from Webster Groves, Missouri, where Mr. Seccombe has been rector of Emmanuel Episcopal Church since leaving Carmel several years ago. He will return to his former pulpit on Sunday morning to preach the sermon at the 11:00 o'clock service at All Saints' Episcopal Church. After the service he and Mrs. Seccombe will be honored at a coffee hour in the Parish Hall.

In addition to his parish duties, Mr. Seccombe helped coach the Carmel High School football team each fall when he lived here.

CLAY CLODS

"You of the finer sense," wrote Pound,
"Broken against false knowledge . . ."
Let us add: ". . . Cannot have picked prunes
Without knowing clay clods,
Hard to sit upon,
And companions, mixing a little water with wine,
And prune sugar on hands caked with dirt,
And lusty dreams taking shape in the sun's heat."
Clay clods in the finer human sense,
Or clay clods holding rolling prunes;
All have their points, and represent Mother Earth,
And we sit or walk upon them at our peril.

—ARTHUR ROY WAGNER.

HEAD WATERS

You said: a time will come (yourself at last alone, quite free to think, to do, no querulous other-half constraining flow of your clear purposes) when rock now firm beneath you suddenly explodes, and cinders choke your whole cascade of living till it slacks to marsh, sucked down in grief too green. Dear, cheat that time and plan some surer current through despair!

So wisdom warned. But arrogance shut its ears, since that warm river seemed forever full.
Now granite shudders, thunder breaks across my lava-wilderness, charred soil surfeits my stream bed, all its waters seep deep in the dark away.
This hour I know
love was your spring cool-brimming, life the stream you filled to flow.

—HELEN FAULKNER.

TO A VAGABOND

You will come back to the dreaming hills
And the sky where stars have thrown
Their dark-blue sequin shawls
Over these hills of home.

Though you will find new faces
Who toast your hopes with wine—
You will return to the simple things
White wind and water's shine.

You will come back to the dreaming hills
And the sky where stars are blown
Over the little things we knew
You will come back to home.

—MARY ANN PUTMAN

TWILIGHT

The drift of meadow larks' soft votive songs
Joins fragrance from acacia's golden mist.
The wind has torn a rainbow's silken thongs
And scattered them about with wanton fist.
A silvered chipmunk folds his busy paws
To contemplate a human passing by,
And unseen hands unroll the purple gauze
Which veils the heaven's secrets from the eye.

—LAURA JANET LARSON

Music On The Peninsula

By Mary Lindsay-Oliver

Announcement was made this week of a visit of the New York Philharmonic, Leonard Bernstein conducting, in San Francisco August 26 and 27 under auspices of the San Francisco Symphony Society as part of a seven weeks' tour that includes Canada and Hawaii besides continental United States. It may not yet be known to all that our former conductor, Gregory Millar, is now assistant conductor to Bernstein and the Philharmonic, in which admirers of his gifts rejoice.

Last week three of our fine local artists in music and drama gave an interesting program for the Symphony Guild, meeting at the Hotel Munras, to a packed audience of members and those interested in supporting the Monterey County Orchestra. One has never heard Mrs. Douglas Graham sing better or more joyously, finely accompanied by Joy Oleata. Ruth Warshawsky was also captivating in her comic character sketches and dress and well known drama gifts. She is a great artist. Marjorie Wurzmann, who will give a recital in Oakland, played us much of her program though the little piano was not worthy of her strong execution.

At the first resumed Wednesday programs in the Carmel Foundation's new hall, an excellent concert was given by the Fort Ord Male Chorus. At last there is a place and a Chickering Grand there to make the musical programs more satisfactory. The color is cheerful with large windows and door into the surrounding garden soon to be finished, and light walls add greatly to possible hanging of paintings. The harmony of the unaccompanied chorus was excellent, so pleasantly conducted by Private First Class Andrew Gustessan and announced with much humor by M.C. Specialist 4 David Madison, who finally praised the audience and hoped the chorus would come again to the Foundation. Their genial manner, musicianship and choice of pieces were thoroughly enjoyed. They were introduced by Blanche Tolmie who has been clever and faithful in supplying the Wednesday programs with variety and often music. She spoke, too, with much enthusiasm and received a standing ovation. Those whose interest in the Foundation generously provided the new building have added much to increased effort of Carmel's artistic occupations, and when a real auditorium is at last provided for the symphony and other major events we will be forging ahead.

The finals for the Opera auditions will take place on Tuesday, June 28, at the Veterans' Auditorium in San Francisco, judged by Lauritz Melchior and Kurt Adler with six contestants from Seattle, Salt Lake City, San Francisco, Los Angeles, Portland and San Diego. Free tickets are available to the public by sending a stamped addressed envelope to the War Memorial Opera House.

Tomorrow is the arrival date of the National Symphony League at Asilomar for its fifth annual workshop of composers, conductors and players. This year a Music Critics' session is added from July 1 to 4 for benefit of those western critics who found it too far to go to Washington, D.C., last October. The whole session lasts for three weeks, finishing just before the beginning of The Carmel Bach Festival.

California Rodeo Has Golden Jubilee At Salinas In July

The California Rodeo celebrates its Golden Jubilee at Salinas July 21 to 24 with virtually all of the nation's top cowboys expected to be on hand to compete for national championship points and cash awards which have reached a record $65,000.

In keeping with the fiftieth anniversary theme, many of the features which have found favor through the years will be brought back for the Golden Jubilee, it was announced by L. M. "Mike" Tynan, president.

These will include the return of the spectacular wild horse race as the finale of each day's competition at the rodeo grounds. Among feature acts will be Montie Montana, famous Western entertainer, who has always been a hit at Salinas.

In addition, there will be ten of the nation's most skillful and colorful trick riders, three sets of Roman riders and three outstanding trick ropers.

Janice Meyenberg Sunday Bride

Sunday afternoon at 2:00 o'clock in Carmel Presbyterian Church, Janice Ann Meyenberg and Peter James Edmonds were married in a ceremony performed by the Reverend Harris Pillsbury and witnessed by family members and close friends.

The bride wore a waltz-length white silk organza over taffeta gown with a bateau neckline outlined by white satin leaf and flower appliques. Tiny pink rosebuds and green leaves were scattered over her veil which was held in place by a white satin circle crown combined with maline in bonnet effect. She carried a white Bible topped by a white orchid from which fell ribbon streamers.

Patricia Veit flew from New York to be her maid of honor. Her champagne silk organza dress had a jewel neckline, satin applique decoration and a satin belt above a bouffant skirt. Bronze jewels glinted on her matching maline circle headdress and she carried a bouquet of cream-colored rosebuds.

Elizabeth Edmonds, the groom's sister, was bridesmaid in a turquoise silk organza dress with a cummerbund of the same material marking the waistline. Her jeweled maline crown matched her dress and she carried a bouquet similar to the maid of honor's.

Flower girl was Barbara Sorenson of Salinas, cousin of the bride. Her frock of white organza had a turquoise cotton underdress and she carried a nosegay bouquet.

John Meyenberg, the bride's brother, came from San Diego where he is stationed in the Navy, to be best man. Bert Macahilig was the usher.

The bride's mother, Mrs. Clyde Young, attended the wedding in a sheath of white-embroidered toffee-colored silk organza, white accessories, organza hat and a corsage of cymbidium orchids.

Mrs. Nelson O. Edmonds, mother of the groom, wore a silver green costume with harmonizing flowered hat and an orchid corsage.

White stock and gladiolii decorated the bride's home for the reception following the ceremony. The wedding cake was placed on the bride's table covered with a Madeira cloth.

The bride graduated on Friday night from Carmel High School. She is a member of the Monterey Peninsula Assembly, Order of Rainbow Girls. Her paternal grandparents were the late Mr. and Mrs. John Meyenberg and her maternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Andy Sorensen, all of Salinas.

The bridegroom's parents live in the Country Club area. He has a brother, John Edmonds of South Carolina, and a sister, Mrs. Pat Rand of Wisconsin. His grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Frank James of Carmel. He graduated from Carmel High School in 1957 and is now employed in Mountain View.

The young couple will make their home in Palo Alto.

Johnsons Home From Europe

Guests of Mr. and Mrs. George B. Turner last week were Dr. and Mrs. Reuben Johnson and their sons Roddy and Kent, also Joan Gustafson of Mead, Nebraska. The Johnsons have returned to the Peninsula following a year in Europe while Dr. Johnson, Monterey Peninsula College faculty member, was on Sabbatical leave. Miss Gustafson, a student at Midland College, Fremont, Nebraska, will attend summer session at MPC. She is the niece of Mrs. Turner and Mrs. Johnson.

Additional evening guests of the Turners were Mrs. Vernon Johnson and Karen Johnson of Osceola, Nebraska, Mrs. Paul Pillsbury and son, Paul, of Hayward and Mr. and Mrs. Harold Johnson.

More Olympic Parties

Added to the many parties in honor of participants, judges and officials here for the Olympic Equestrian Trials at Pebble Beach are a luncheon which Mrs. Wilbur L. Hopkins of Pebble Beach gave today and a swimming and barbecue party for young riders at which Camille Stahl will be hostess this evening.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE SERMON

Universal availability of the healing and saving power of the Christ, Truth, will be a theme dealt with at Christian Science services Sunday.

The account of Christ Jesus' healing of the woman "which had a spirit of infirmity eighteen years, and was bowed together, and could in no wise lift up herself" (Luke 13) will be included in the Bible readings. "Christian Science" will be the subject of the Lesson-Sermon.

A citation to be read from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy states (495:2): "Truth casts out error now as surely as it did nineteen centuries ago. All of Truth is not understood; hence its healing power is not fully demonstrated."

The universal nature of divine power is also brought out in the Golden Text to be read from Isaiah (52:10): "The Lord hath made bare his holy arm in the eyes of all the nations; and all the ends of the earth shall see the salvation of our God."

Sunset, Woods, River Teachers' Vacation Plans

Carmel district school teachers have varied plans for vacation months. Many will travel, others study in colleges and universities, some stay at home. One, Mrs. Kay Goines, kindergarten teacher at Woods School, will be an exhibition teacher through the summer. She has been invited by Dean I. James Quillen, Stanford University School of Education, to teach at the university's summer demonstration school and seminar and work with Dr. Fannie Shaftel who lectured in Carmel this spring.

Plans of other Woods School teachers are: Joseph Lowe, first grade, undecided; Mrs. Constance Riggin, first grade, a trip to Hawaii; Mrs. Ferne Blee, second grade, attend summer school at San Diego State College; Mrs. Myra Wermuth, third grade, "Stay in Carmel and glad of it"; Mrs. Jean Agan, fourth grade, stay in Carmel; Mrs. Nadean Gonzales, short trips but mostly remain in Carmel; Stephen Whitney, fifth grade, study Spanish at Monterey summer school and work on several projects.

Richard C. Baron, Woods and Carmelo Schools principal, will attend summer school at Sacramento State College. Mrs. Bess Westover, secretary at Woods, is going on a trip with her husband to South Dakota; Alfred Rico, custodian, plans to fish and see ball games on his vacation.

Summer plans of teachers at Carmelo School are: Mrs. Alberta Medcraft, kindergarten, attend a kindergarten workshop at San Francisco State College; Mrs. Helen Larkey, first and second grades, summer school then a trip to Victoria, British Columbia; Mrs. Cleo Wells, second and third grades, "Stay home to enjoy my year-old grandchild"; Mrs. Ruth Rial, fourth and fifth grades, summer school at Monterey Peninsula College or Hartnell College; Peter Glod, fifth and sixth grades, summer sessions at San Francisco State College.

Sunset faculty members also have various plans for the next two months. Harvey Bennett will spend the summer on the East Coast then go to Europe and teach in the United States Air Force dependent teaching program for a year.

Art instructor Joe Broadman plans to garden, paint, tour Southern California. Tom Cloud will vacation in New York, take courses at Syracuse University and do private tutoring. Jack Douglas will visit Lake Tahoe, San Francisco, Southern California, Mojave Desert, Las Vegas and Grand Canyon. Bruce Duncan is leaving Sunset to teach at Pacific High School in San Leandro. He will go to summer school at San Francisco State College and Oakland Junior College, then set up the science department at Pacific High before school opens.

House-building will occupy Gordon Gartz' vacation time. After he has completed the house he is constructing, he will camp. Miss Virginia Hammat plans to remain in Carmel. Art Holman will do the same and work, too. Arthur Hull will first be on active duty with the U.S.A.G.—6211 ARSU at Fort Ord for two weeks, then relax at home before taking a trip to Victoria, British Columbia. Miss Sally McPhail will attend a philosophy seminar, continue her oil painting studies, travel through the Sierra, visit California ghost towns and tour Idaho.

Mrs. Beatrice Picard will be in Carmel most of the summer with tentative plans for two weeks at Tahoe. Neil Smith will teach in the summer school program then "do whatever I wish." Mrs. Sarah Sproull will study at San Francisco State College. Mrs. Thelma Stohr will be in Carmel this summer. Ken Wiese, shop instructor, will attend California College of Arts and Crafts for six weeks and study sculpture and ceramics. After this he hopes to take a trip to the Grand Canyon. Mrs. Beatrice Wiegman will be in Cuernavaca, Mexico. She will occupy her parents' home, "run it" in Spanish and perhaps attend the University of Mexico. Her daughter, Wendy, will accompany her on the Spanish-speaking-experience trip.

Mrs. Irene Sieve, Sunset cafeteria manager, will take a supervisor's management course at San Jose State College and study sanitation and work simplification at Cal Poly in San Luis Obispo. Next year she will be cafeteria supervisor for the Pacific Grove school system.

Principal Orville Rogers will be busy at Sunset most of the summer. During any vacation time he will be "busy at home." Miss Hoopes, secretary at Sunset, will have three weeks' vacation in Carmel, spend the same amount of time hiking in the high country of Kings Canyon, Sequoia National Parks area.

Reports of River School teachers' vacation activities are as follows: Miss Linda Bilon, teach Spanish in Carmel summer school program; Miss Nancy Deaver, go home to Balboa Island; Mrs. Melinda Douglas, stay in Carmel; Mrs. Claire Duygou, spend two weeks at Clear Lake then attend summer school at Asilomar; Mrs. Lucy Foster, courses at Asilomar; Mrs. Sally Harkins, Asilomar summer school; Tom Hamil, move into a new home in Pacific Grove; Mrs. Janet Herben, work in her Carmel music shop; Miss Joan Kimes, visit in Southern California; Mrs. Jean MacDonald, move to Watsonville; Mrs. Anna Kohner, travel in the eastern states; Mrs. Alice Powell, stay in Carmel and Asilomar classes; Miss Mary Alice Osborne, remain at home in Carmel; Miss Marie Rickard, go to Pennsylvania and Connecticut; Mrs. Carol Surman, stay in Carmel; Miss Frances Timmons, visit Florida and North Carolina then go to Germany to teach for a year in the U.S. Army schools; Miss Maureen Dyer, undecided; Mrs. Sharon Jones, study music in Los Angeles summer school; Miss Ruth Stevenson, teach reading in the Carmel summer school program.

Ted Kuster Eye-View Community Theatre's Forty Turbulent Years

tant, when the urge came that I should do it.

I started my work in Carmel in 1920, after 20 exceedingly busy years in Los Angeles in the practice of law. I have been asked countless times, "How did you happen to abandon a conspicuously lucrative law practice in favor of the risky business of community theatre?" I think I ought to reply to that question this afternoon, for the answer will clarify much that has happened.

I must start far back. I was born in Terre Haute, Indiana, in 1878. That year is a mere statistical figure, meaning little or nothing except in a frame of reference. Well then, I first saw the light of day just 13 years after the end of the Civil War. My father had been mustered out of the Union Army with the rank of Major. But he had not been a killer during the Rebellion—he had been a surgeon, saving lives, not destroying them. After the war he settled in Terre Haute, marrying my mother in 1876.

Now in those days, beginning as early as the 1840's, the States of Indiana, Ohio, Illinois and Wisconsin were the goal of tens of thousands of Central European settlers—mainly Germans, Austrians and Scandinavians—and with them came their love of music and theatre and poetry and literature generally. My father had, I learned in due time, a ringing golden tenor voice and a natural acting talent, so he was in great demand by amateur opera organizations. It seems that these opera groups stacked up very favorably with the professional opera of that day in New York and Philadelphia. But as my father's medical practice grew, the opera engagements in Chicago, Cincinnati, Minneapolis, Cleveland and Indianapolis became more and more difficult to fulfil, and by the time I arrived on the scene they had ceased altogether.

But during my childhood my father's love of music and theatre, and my mother's too in lesser degree, were duly passed on to me. I constantly heard my father's anecdotes and reminiscences. He would repeat with relish dozens of passages of Shakespeare as he had heard them declaimed in the broken English of the German-American actors who had been his associates. You can readily see how all this gave my boyish thoughts and tastes a decided slant.

At the age of four and a half I saw my first play. It was called The Naiad Queen. It was a sort of combination spectacle - pantomime-pageant with music, which dealt with gods and goddesses, demons and goblins, and lovely nymphs of the woods and lakes. It was performed every year, it seems, as a charity benefit, and the participants were some of the good citizens of Terre Haute. I remember it particularly because for years I was not allowed to forget it. A young lady living next door to us was one of the players. At her first entrance it appears that I clambered in great excitement onto my seat and shouted, for all to hear, "Oh yook, muzzer, yook, Ida Allen's barefoot". Well, I have seen many more or less barefoot actresses since, but none have given me the pleased surprise that neighbor Ida did.

The second dramatic experience that I can remember occurred in the year following. I was then nearly six years old. It was 1884. But this was not a play. It was a political torchlight procession — a bit of Americana that has disappeared forever. The presidential and vice-presidential aspirants, as I learned later, were Blaine and Logan for the Republicans, against Cleveland and Hendricks for the Democrats.

Gunnar Norberg's Initiative Proposal

by the members present, essentially conveyed the grave concern felt there for the future of Carmel by the voters represented.

Trying to distil and define the essence of the serious concern, as I had heard it from many voters in the past few weeks, and to determine the common denominator of the various solutions which had been discussed, I told the Citizens' Committee that a possible omnibus initiative ordinance might perhaps accomplish best what a probable majority of the people might want done.

At the request of Admiral C. W. Fisher, chairman of the Citizens' Committee, I will try later to outline for him in as much detail as I can, the substance of the kind of initiative ordinance which I felt the electorate might possibly wish to enact.

Meanwhile, however, I will try to set down here, as briefly as I can, the four points which I believe urgently require attention and enactment into law, if the essential character of Carmel is to be saved.

The first point is the limitation of the size of business buildings and the size of sites upon which they are to be erected. Colonel C. A. DeCamp's 4,000-square-foot maximum building - size formula, which is incorporated in Admiral Fisher's 8,000 - square - foot maximum building-site concept, provide excellent yard-stick material for the needed size-and-site legislation.

The second point concerns motels which again, after a lapse of some two years, once again show signs, unfortunately, of a perilous tendency to mushroom once more if they are not further restrained. The idea of legislating a compulsory spacing-out of motels, might solve this problem. We could say, for example, that no motel could be built within a block of another motel.

The third point relates to growing liquor outlets. Again, legislation seeking to space them out, might lead to a solution. The city does not have final say in this matter, but if legislation were enacted, stating that no liquor outlet could be established less than one block from another, State authorities might rule in accord with it.

Finally, the fourth point in a possible omnibus initiative ordinance could concevably put fixed bounds on the C-2, or heavy commercial zone, which is located generally north of Ocean Avenue, both east and west of Junipero Street. An ordinance might, for instance, say that the boundaries of the C-2 Zone, as it now exists, could not be altered. It might then go on to say that no commercial or industral activity, now limited to the C-2 Zone, would be allowed outside of that zone, either as a main activity or as an accessory one. (If such legislation had been on the books last month, I do not believe the council could have acted last month as it did in the Plaza corporation matter.)

I am afraid the pressures engendered by threatening large business operations, can choke Carmel to death, if restraining legislation is not enacted in time. And I believe there may not be very much time left in which to put the restraints into effective operation.

trustees with an estimated $3,000,000 building cost for a new high school at the district's valley mouth site. Trustees had hoped to construct the school for $1,625,000; convert the present high school to junior high use.

A suggestion to expand present high school facilities by building classrooms on the playfields, provide high school athletic facilities at a new junior high school on the valley site, was considered by the two groups; also a proposal to build a "minimum" high school at the valley mouth without gymnasium, cafeteria, shop facilities and fewer science rooms than originally planned. Neither suggestions were satisfactory to those present.

Committee members then requested trustees to obtain up to date projected enrollment figures before continuing school planning.

High school need previously projected by Morphet and Swanson was for 750 pupils in two years; 1,200 to 1,500 within ten years. Estimated enrollment next fall at the high school will be 720 students, Principal Warren Edwards told the two groups.

An amended lawsuit seeking to prevent construction of a parking garage with auto service facilities at Leslie C. Fenton's Plaza site is on file in Superior Court in Salinas.

The complaint was filed by attorneys Thomas S. Montgomery and George R. Walker for Mr. and Mrs. Fred Leidig and Dale Leidig.

Similar to a prior complaint, the action contends that parking garages with gas station facilities violate Carmel's zoning laws.

No date has been set for a hearing.

Forest commissioners Tuesday night sent to the city council a center strip tree-planting plan for Junipero Street. Forty trees, ninety percent of them Monterey pines, the rest oaks, commissioners decided were reforestation needs for the area.

They also indicated they will prepare similar tree-planting plans for other city streets and requested the council to grant the commission a $500 budget fund.

Dear Committee Members:

The Members of the Board of Trustees, Monterey Bay Chapter of the Nature Conservancy, wish to endorse your stand that the eight acres of surplus land, purchased by the State Highway Commission in conjunction with its activities on Carmel Hill, should be preserved as open space or greenbelt. We highly concur that it would be truly regrettable for this land to be sold for development.

We commend your position and wish you success.

Sincerely yours,
